DETAILED ACTIONDouble Patenting

1. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

2. Claims 21-29,31-33 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-16 of U.S. Patent No. 6,131,567. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the difference between claim 21 and patent claim 14 lies in the fact that patent claim 14 includes more elements and is thus more specific (e.g. patent claim 14 includes the following additional limitations: the formulation being inhaled with a first total inhaled volume; allowing particles of a formulation to settle in the lungs, migrate into the patient's circulatory system and thereby increase the concentration to a first maximum level in the patient's blood in a first period of time; inhaling the aerosolized formulation into the lungs of a patient, the formulation being inhaled with a second total inhaled volume different from the first total inhaled volume; allowing particles of the formulation to settle in the lungs, migrate into the patient's circulatory system and thereby increase the concentration of formulation to a second maximum level in the patient's blood in a second period of time). Thus the invention of patent claim 14 is in effect a "species" of the "generic" invention of application claim 21. It has been held that the generic invention is "anticipated" by the "species". See In re Goodman, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993). Since application claim 21 is anticipated by patent claim 14, it is not patentably distinct from patent claim 14.
